

Learning

powers at

Grovelands

At Grovelands, we have been developing a Growth Mindset learning culture.

We decided on six key areas that help us learn and we have called them learning powers because they help us do incredible things!

1. Understand that hard work creates intelligence not talent.
2. Do not give up! Keep trying when things get hard.
3. Learn to say "I can't do it....yet."

Our six learning powers at Grovelands

Term 1-Engagement
Being engaged with Barney owl

I know what good listening looks like. I come to school ready to learn. I can concentrate on my learning until I finish.

Term 2- Cooperation
Being cooperative with Honey bee

I can cooperate with my learning partner. I listen to other people's ideas. I can take turn and work positively with everyone.

Term 3-CHALLENGE
Seeking out a Challenge with Sherlock Bones the beagle

I know that if I find my learning easy, I'm not learning anything new. I know it's ok to make mistakes because it helps me learn. I have a positive attitude to my learning.

Term 4- Resourceful
Being resourceful with Banana the chimp

I can plan steps in a task. I know what to do if I need some help with my learning. I can discuss my finished work and talk about making improvements. I know what to do when things are too easy or too hard because I can choose my learning zone.

Term 5-Determined
Being determined with Gerald the giraffe

I can keep trying when things are hard from me.

Term 6- CREATIVITY
Being Creative with Flame the dragon

I can use my imagination to create ideas. I try different ways to do things. I can try out my own ideas and make changes if needed.

I don't let others distract my learning.
I can settle down to a task and finish it.

I can make links with other areas of my learning.

Developing a Growth Mindset learning culture looks like this...

- Successful learners can grow their brain.
They do not have fixed mindsets.
- Mistakes are ok because they help you learn.
- A growth mindset embraces challenge and shows resilience in the face of difficulty.
- Praise is focused on effort not outcome.
 - We work with mixed ability learning partners so that we can cooperate and learn from each other.

- We change learning partners every week so that we are resourceful in our ideas.

